Foreword

In the arrangement of this year-book, the second of its kind, we have attempted to follow the excellent example set for us by the Shorthorn of 1921. It is our earnest hope that the next class will be able to do better than we have done, for by such means the traditions, customs and ideals of the older classes are perpetuated, added to and improved upon for the betterment of the new classes. The Two-Year Course is well established, but still in its infancy, and anything helping to lend it dignity cannot fail to make it more widely appreciated.

History of the Two-Year Course at Massachusetts Agricultural College

In May, 1917, both houses of the legislature of the Commonwealth passed a resolution known as Senate No. 374, relative to the establishment of the Two-Year Course in practical agriculture at the Massachusetts Agricultural College. The resolution is as follows:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the general court there should be established at the Massachusetts Agricultural College a two years' course in practical agriculture upon the completion of which certificates of graduation should be granted, that the course should be opened to all residents of the Commonwealth who have attained the age of seventeen years and who possess the educational qualifications necessary for admission to any public high school of the Commonwealth."

At a meeting of the trustees held soon afterward, it was voted to carry out in letter and in spirit the resolution of the Massachusetts Legislature. Accordingly, the first term of the Two-Year Course was offered in December, 1917. The first course of study was uniform for all students. The work of the first year consisted of six months' study at the college followed by six months of farm practice on selected farms in the state. The second year called for nine months of resident study. In 1921 the Two-Year Course was reorganized in order that greater opportunity be given for specialization. There are now seven major lines of work; animal husbandry, dairy manufactures, floriculture, horticulture, pomology, poultry and vegetable gardening.

The organization of short courses in agricultural colleges is not a new departure in the service these institutions are rendering in the several states. Thirty-six of the forty-eight agricultural colleges offer one or two year short courses. Among these colleges are numbered some of the most powerful agricultural institutions. That the establishment of the Two-Year Course met a real demand is shown by the enrollment during the past few years. The number has varied and will vary from year to year. The attendance in the past has been from 275 to 325 students. There are now 285 graduates of this course.

The Two-Year Course is so administered that it is a school in itself. Separate classes are maintained for the Two-Year students in order that the instruction may be adapted to the group and the fundamental principles of the course be maintained. In the employment of instructors it has been the policy of the institution to secure men of college grade who teach all classes and groups of students in the institution. Though paid from short course funds they do not comprise a separate staff. The Two-Year Course is distinctly vocational in its nature. Its purpose is to train men to farm profitably and to live happily in Massachusetts rural communities.

From the inception of the course, provision has been made for the athletic, social and recreational needs of the students. The first step was the engagement of a coach, "Em" Grayson, who has developed baseball, football, basketball and track activities. Three clubs, the Kolony Klub, the A. T. G. and the S. C. S. meet the social needs of the life of the student body. A beginning has been made in dramatics by the presentation of class plays and the organization of the dramatic club.

The Two-Year Course has ceased to be an experiment, it is now an established organization. In the organization and development of the course much credit is due to the Two-Year student councils of this and previous years. In leadership, in development of morale, in good sense and judgment, this group of men have been always dependable.

In conclusion may I take this opportunity of a formal expression of appreciation of the loyalty and cooperation of the class of 1923. They leave behind an enviable record of achievement.

History of The Class of 1923

When the prospective graduates of the class of '23, the fourth Two-Year class, first congregated on this campus, we found a well-established organization waiting to receive us. Our numbers were one hundred and fifty-five, five being of the fairer sex.

Following the opening Assembly we were gathered in well-remembered Room "F", French Hall, where the Student Council members from the Senior class explained the purpose and workings of their organization and helped us to elect temporary officers. These were William F. Mulhern, President; Frederick W. Marshall, Vice-President; Beatrice B. Kleyla, Secretary; and John S. Armstrong, Treasurer. Harold N. Bacon was elected chairman of the constitutional committee, and immediately began to draw up our covenant of government. Representatives to the Council for the first term were: Rivet, Merrifield, Seribner and McCarthy.

Various college activities soon absorbed our interest. Football drew a large number, and several hard fought games were played.

About the middle of the first term permanent class officers were chosen to serve for one year. These were: John S. Armstrong, President; Everett B. Woodward, Vice-President; Beatrice B. Kleyla, Secretary; and Paul F. Swanson Treasurer.

The winter term saw the height of the social season. Several dances were held in the Memorial Hall, and all voted them a success. An attempt was made to form a hockey team, but lack of ice and equipment proved to be insuperable obstacles. A few found diversion and an outlet for success energy on the basketball team, which had a long and formidable schedule.

Late in March we scattered to our farm placement jobs and heard very little from one another until fall, when the joyful return occurred.

With football, classes, dances and good times generally where old friendships were renewed and new ones formed, the fall passed swiftly and happily. The new class entered into the spirit of things enthusiastically, and their willing co-operation with us made possible a very pleasant interchange of dances.

In November class elections were again due, but the class refused to consider new faces in office, re-electing the entire executive group of the first year.

Shorthorn N 1923

The winter term passed rapidly, altho the heavy snow-fall kept us close to the campus, and almost before we knew it the Junior class had departed for their farm training. In this class we feel sure we have a worthy successor and a group that will carry on and improve the customs and ideals of the course.

How time has flown this spring! Baseball, dramatics, commencement plans, etc., have consumed the time of many. A highly successful baseball season was enjoyed. Out of eleven games played the team won seven, Deerfield alone getting away with better than an even break.

The dramatic club was constantly busy with rehearsals, the success of which is well attested by the favorable reception of the play "Caste" at the commencement exercises.

The commencement exercises were well attended by parents, relatives and friends, all of whom seemed to enjoy the campus and the activities.

Ninety-eight of us received our certificates, and are now ready, supposedly, to take the world by its horns and wrest a living from it. We cannot fail to have benefitted from the instruction and training received here, and it is to be hoped that we will not forget the institution nor one another, and that, as the years go by, we may occasionally return to renew the memories of these happy days.

*"Come one, come all' this rock shall fly
From its firm base as soon as I."*

Many and varied have been the activities of this sterling youth in his two years here. He first rose to prominence on the football field, but soon appeared in about every activity on the campus. "Jinks" has a great weakness—deer hunting,—both kinds. He can be found most any evening at one of the local ballrooms and when it was open season on the other variety. He cleared out for the wilds of his home state bringing back a handsome buck as a sample of his prowess. However, he has found sufficient time to acquire considerable knowledge and should make a very capable chambermaid to the milk producing bovines.

"Speech is silver, but silence is golden."

At the time of falling leaves and sweet cider in the year 1921, Frank's smiling countenance was first seen around the poultry plant. Being an Animal Husbandry major he decided the second year to keep away from the chickens, because he didn't want to make the cows jealous. Ask Frank about his find, during his farm placement training. He will reply, she is quite the berries. He has already secured a job in the same locality. We are sure Frank will make good although many of us envy him for his drag with the Profs. here at the college.

"I am not in the roll of common men."

We'll bet the little home town steps around and opens its sleepy eyes when "old man Allen's son" arrives for a spell. "Al" is happiest when telling the Prof. about the bumper hay crops they raise down that way. The dark complexioned youth is very ambitious and as a side-line is getting in some very good experience which should prove of use later. When "Al" settles down the fortunate woman of his choice will be surprised at his ability to wield a broom. "Milt" spent his placement training on the Cape and is now well versed in growing asparagus. As yet he hasn't decided whether to go back there and raise vegetables or to start a canning factory at home.

Carle Clifford Ambrose

"SLIM"

Amherst 1890; Poultry. 132 Pleasant Street

"But unto you I shall allow the easiest room in hell."

This dark lanky gentleman can tell you which way Main Street runs (if there is one) in almost every town from Texas to Quebec, and from Verdun to Butte, Montana. Verily, he hath travelled far! The fates finally decreed that he pause here at M. A. C. long enough to absorb sufficient instruction in poultry and general farming as will enable him to support the wife he has recently taken unto himself. His quick intellect and studious habits have carried him high (if not actually to the top) in the standings of the class. The ranks of the Massachusetts poultry breeders are about to receive one of the best prospects that ever left this campus.

"But, in his duty prompt at every call, he watched and wept, he prayed and felt for all."

We always thought that "Army" was a man without a vice until this spring. Nobody had even seen him or heard of him smoking, swearing, drinking, or out with wild women, but, in spite of that, he has a terrible vice. Ever since the sweet vernal grass began to head out "Army" is never seen without a succulent stalk of it protruding from his lips. Alas! No man is perfect! Besides being our class president for two years, John was the "old reliable" with the willow this spring. He has trusted the Pomology Department to impart sufficient information to enable him to make a living raising fruit in New England. Wherever he goes he should be successful, judging by his accomplishments here.

Here is the songbird from England, who has given us many happy evenings with her music. She is another of the nature lovers, the out-of-door enthusiasts, and she has been a hearty supporter of the hikes and the bacon-bats. She is a good horsewoman, and can ride anything, even to a bicycle. Her latest task is to teach the Co-eds the difficult process of balancing upon this tricky vehicle and avoiding the stones and trees. She has cheered many a hungry soul with a cup of afternoon tea and if you are particularly needy she sometimes adds a slice of bread and marmalade. As a member of the Social Committee she has worked hard to make a success of the various affairs given by the class.

We could write indefinitely on this young man's good points and his career at M. A. C. He will have to agree with us that he has definitely decided on one step which was not included in the Two-Year curriculum. We have been reminded time and again that married folks make the best farmers, and Bake has seen the light and is about to take the leap. He likes Ayrshires, and has shown in his work that he has assimilated the knowledge handed out to him; viz., "We like to see the wedge-shape and straight lines from hooks to pins." In fact, he may teach on graduating, and can use the above as a basis for this work.

*"A man he seems of cheerful yesterdays

"Walt" is listed as a Poultry major but a large part of his time, energy and pep has gone into athletics. His experience and ability in both football and baseball will be severely missed. As captain of both teams he has set a high example in grit and sportsmanlike tactics. In football he earned the sobriquet of "Ribbsie" by playing through two seasons with several fractured ribs. As shortstop on the baseball team his steady influence has been a big factor in the success of the team. It comes as somewhat of a surprise to learn that he intends to give up athletics and settle down to raise prize winning White Plymouth Rocks.

Good things still come in small packages. "Barney's" cherry grin and happy-go-lucky ways have made him popular with everybody, (women in particular). He is one of the very few to play on the three different teams here. It is truly fortunate that he is able to work off surplus steam in athletics; terrible things might happen otherwise. When long, lanky Henry was twirling, diminutive "Barney" covered first and did a good job. His chatter on the coaching lines was the life of the game in many cases. If he puts the same pep into farming, how things will boom!

In the fall of 1921, Brattleboro, a southern Vermont town, delivered to us one of its carefully moulded products. This town is especially noted for its Insane Asylum and Deaf and Dumb School. So my dear reader look at the picture and then judge for yourself. As a rule Avery is a very busy lad; eats, sleeps, attends his fuss and dancing courses and assists the noted Greek to shake a mean soda. Here is a little secret about Avery. Do you know the day he had this picture taken, he spent $1.50 for grub? Some one asked him why he did it, and he replied, "I didn't want to look hungry in the picture." He goes about not saying very much, but we know he thinks a great deal. We are sure Avery will succeed and to him we wish the best of luck.

*"Your soul is measuring itself by itself,

"Deacon" is a product of that well-known school for boys, Mt. Hermon. He is a sober and quiet lad with a secret romance which was not discovered until we found out that he had accepted a position that demanded a married man. "Beek" is a strong advocate of M. A. C. and claims that with a few good Holsteins like Gladys it would be equal to Mt. Hermon. His hobby is singing in the choir where he trills a mean bass. This should come in handy when milking recalcitrant bovines.

Pomology and apple eating are "Bobs" favorite studies and he intends to work where he can have all the apples he can eat. That rakish, scooting, gas-cart of his will be severely missed around the campus but many will long cherish the memory of an occasional restful (?) flight in it.

John Melvell Benson

"BENNIE"

Mt. Desert, Me. 44 Pleasant Street
1881; Horticulture; Dramatics (1, 2); General
Manager (2); Executive Committee (2).

*"The fever to accomplish some great work,

Among "Bennie's" other good qualities is his appreciation of M. A. C. as demonstrated by his three years on the campus. Although listed as a Hort. major, dramatics is his real line. He starred in last year's commencement show and bids fair to repeat this year. In spite of his activities outside the class room he has managed to absorb a vast amount of agricultural knowledge. We don't just know what "Bennie's" plans are but anyone with his horticultural ability should have little difficulty in climbing the ladder to success. At any rate he will make the natives of that tight little isle sit up and take notice.

Roger Blake, alias "Lone Wolf", for whom the wilds of Crow Hill and South Amherst have no terrors. His specialty is deer hunting. We used to see "Rog" around the Kolony Klub, but during the winter term he mysteriously disappeared. Some say that he has since been seen by the woodpile, but they failed to say whether or no any wood was sawed.

Norman Francis Bligh

West Willmington, Conn. 29 East Pleasant Street
1902; Poultry; A. T. G.

"Bashfulness is an ornament to youth."

Owing to his conveniently short last name this pink-cheeked young chap has never suffered the odium of a nickname. He might well have been spoken of as the late Mr. Bligh, for reasons obvious to his instructors. It is rumored that one morning last October, Norman appeared at the first class on time. Investigation showed that it was due to the fact that standard time had been resumed and he had forgotten to set his watch back. We understand that Norman enjoyed immensely the recent trip of the poultry class. One Connecticut town in particular had something attractive in it, at least, it was in it until Norman had been there a short time.

"A very studious gentleman."

Holden has certainly lost a valuable man, but it is only for a short time, because when "Brownie" completes his agricultural education he is going to put it to work growing spinach, cucumbers, and such like, for the Worcester market. This lad is truly industrious for when he isn't working the Vegetable Gardening Department for a club he is minding the baby for friend wife. "Brownie" bought a bicycle a short time ago and no one can determine whether it is to save his shoes or to outshine Bicycle Barnes in stunt riding. It must be the latter for recently he did a flying somersault into the ditch near the apiary, considerably leaving his metal mount safely on the bridge. "Brownie's" quiet, direct and ambitious manner is certain to win him success in his chosen line of work.

"Ted" spends his summers tickling soil.

"Must I work? Oh, what a waste of time."

Carl's ambition is to become a florist. He has displayed talent in other lines, however, as was shown by his effective directorship of the orchestra in the Aggie Revue of 1921. We never heard of any rope factory in Beverly, but Carl always seems to be plentifully supplied with manila, the fragrant odor of which can be detected further than his diminutive figure can be seen. However, this habit is creative of profound thought and thought makes for success so Carl's future is assured.

"Trust not too much to appearances."

Down from the wilds of Vermont, "Al" came, a chubby little child, to learn how to grow fruit successfully, that he may carry this information back to Orleans where there is nine months of winter every year. "Al" has no equal as a jazz artist, and last but not least "Al's" record at Mrs. Smith's School stands alone. He sure is a busy man when darkness approaches.

"A woman is only a woman, but a good cigar is a smoke."

Those who do not know this man would think they were meeting Napoleon if it were raining. Yes, a cigar, officers boots, oilskin coat with hat rim up, goes to make the original Dick Case. He is a great promoter of the Jersey and takes great delight in advertising the Sibley herd. For sports Dick is out for two things, namely baseball and women. Yes, he is a strong supporter of Draper Hall and we think he is going to make a "home run." He is popular with us too, and to his credit be it said that he has a ruddy smile that won't come off, and a fund of dry humor that even the rainy season cannot dampen. Of amiable disposition and fine qualities Dick makes a wonderful friend, and we're glad the campus has a lure.

Roy Bedford Chisholm

"CHIZ"

Dorchester 27 Fearing Street
1895; Poultry; A. T. G.

"One vast substantial smile."

Smiling Roy has graduated from the "Henry" class and now sports a "Chev." As a consequence he is much in demand when there is something on in Hamp. or neighboring towns. "Chiz" is one of the quiet sort but is always there with his support for any legitimate class activity. He alarmed all who saw him one day last fall by appearing on the campus clad in a scarlet cap and armed with a ferocious looking pop-gun, with which he fired on innocent passers-by from behind trees. All was well, however, it seems that he was merely demonstrating his worthiness to become a member of one of our clubs.

And the world moves on while we gaze with profound admiration at the specimen presented to our view. Before we draw any conclusions let us be broad minded and judge the creature from all angles. His interests are scholastic in the extreme and he is apparently trying to absorb every bit of knowledge before leaving his classmates.

Alfred Arther Crandall

*"My only books were women's books,
And folly's all they've taught me."*

"Al" Crandall, the man with the biggest appetite in ten states, (ask Mrs. Williams), hails from that Green Mountain State that is so famous for its winter sports. "Al" is very adept at skiing and also throws a mean snowball when giving vent to his terrible temper after one of Amherst's numerous cats has crossed his path.

"Cut"

Springfield, Vt. 73 Pleasant Street
1902; Pomology; K. K.; Basketball (1, 2); Baseball

Club (2).

"I will take some savage woman, she shall rear my dusky race."

Like all of Vermont's sons "Cut" is slow in speech. He must have received his previous education at night school judging by his difficulty in keeping awake in class. Perhaps he will wake up some day and set the world a-fire. "Walt" is one of the few to play in all three sports and is happiest when in action. As president of the dramatic club he has worked hard to make that organization a success. When "Cut" finishes he plans to return to his native state to help put it on the map as an apple growing section.

Elwyn Hudson Daw

Lowell 8 Kellogg Avenue

"Laugh and the world laughs with you."

Little is known about "Hud's" previous education. For a first rate account of the manner in which prohibition came about see "Daw." Although one would hardly suspect him of being an "A number one" yarn spinner, he is quite guilty in that league.

Arthur William DeNyse

"De"

North Amherst

"For he's a jolly good fellow."

Arthur William believes in saving shoe leather so he goes from class to class in a "Henry." It came in handy on the recent poultry trip. We understand it was the most select car in the group with a daily fight for positions. No trouble was experienced from traffic cops. "De" is out for a farm of his own where he can put into practice his theories on breeding and rearing record breaking biddies.

"I want to be an angel and never do a thing but play upon a golden harp and sing and sing."

"Eddy" has the reputation of being the worst "grind" in the class. His bulging brief case and scholarly horn rimmed spectacles probably were the foundation for the above "rep." "Eddy" has a leaning toward teaching various agricultural subjects to the youth of our land and he has the conscientious attitude so necessary to success in this line. It would not surprise us at all to hear of him some day as Professor Edminster, Head of the Department of Floriculture in—University.

"All men are born free and equal, but most of them marry."

A long one for Brookline! The town that produced the biggest crab that is taking Animal Husbandry. Without throwing any bouquets we must say he is a loyal, hard worker in anything he tackles from the course in Animal Husbandry up to a modern flapper out in his new ford. Jim has been well liked by the bunch and has done his bit in baseball. If you will just put up with his constant crabbing (which don't mean a thing) you will find in him the type of friend that we all strive to gain. We prophesy for him,— success to gain and fame to win.

"They sin who tell us love can die."

This curly haired apology for a white man fulfills every requirement for the missing link in Darwin's "Evolution of Mankind." When you see a pair of long legs and a cloud of smoke going up the steps of Stockbridge, three at a time, you will know it is "Ted" Emerson arriving from the bungalow after catelching up the lost sleep that was caused by the cows down at the dairy barn. He started in college his freshman year planning to lead a wild career, but like some of our other good men, farm placement training put the brake on. However, he has stepped out once or twice this year, but you musn't breathe a word to a soul because he is striving desperately to keep it dark.

"Two-fifths of him genius and three-fifths sheer fudge."

Here we have a man with a Wesley Barrie profile. It certainly is too bad that the movies missed this charming child, with such pretty hair and freckled face. At any rate he is making up the lost time on the stage and has taken part in our commencement play. In classes "Rachet" always has a question to ask the Prof. In this way we and the Profs. both have become very familiar with him. He is equally at home working on the farm or revelling in society. He's sound in body and in mind, with high ambitions, for the realization of which he is striving mightily. We wish him a happy and worthy career.

"I am addressing, I imagine, an audience of educated persons."

Charlie came to us to learn how to make the beauties of nature more beautiful. Some community is due to be blessed with a promising landscape engineer, but the local politicians had better look to their laurels or crowns or whatever it is that local "pols" affect as a symbol of their sovereignty. Charlie wags a mean and persuasive tongue in casual arguments and woe to the luckless opponent whose armor proves vulnerable. Charles J. won the recent class election for greatest bluffer. He has repeatedly demonstrated his ability to argue whether he had the facts or not.

"The world knows nothing of its greatest men."

This determined son of the soil has made a name for himself in both the class room and on the stage while here in college. Henry never had a close shave in his studies or elsewhere. With the exception of his face he has had a clean record while among us, and for this reason we think he is bound to succeed and wish him luck. In "Fos" Rhode Island has a son to be proud of.

GAL"

"Just an ordinary easy-going cuss, but like the ordinary run of men, no better or no wuss."

"Gal" joined us the first part of January after being out of college for a year. We all admire him for returning to fight it out. He is a good natured fellow, nothing ever moves him to superhuman exertions. In fact, even women seem to have no great affect. He is a strong believer of the saying—"The farmers are the strength of the nation." We all can easily picture "Gal" with his little herd. For the present we will think of cattle and let the future take care of itself. Surely "Gal" is really capable of great things. Besides he is a good scout and we are eager to wish him happiness and prosperity in all his undertakings.

Wallace Frederick Garrett

"GARRY"

Readville 101 Pleasant Street
1905; Poultry; K. K.

"Arise and shake the dust from off thy feet."

This slender south-paw flung for the K. K. in their recent memorable twilight battles with the A. T. G. His stuff was supreme when he had control which wasn't often. "Garry" came here from the Norfolk County Agricultural School where he made his initial bow to the soil. He seems altogether too refined and delicate to become a farmer but perhaps it will wear off. There was a rumor around to the effect that "Garry" was about to join the cavalry, as he had been seen coming from the cavalry barns on several occasions, but a mule kicked him one night and now it is all off.

"Hurry is the resource of the faithless."

Better late than never, but usually never. Donald is known wherever he goes for his slow talk and lagging gait. He is a marvel at drawing comic sketches of the boys, when his mind and thoughts should be elsewhere. "Don" is a wonder for alibis, to which we all can testify. We predict great things if this lad can finally overcome that procrastinating impulse and settle down to real work.

"Ted" suffers from sleeping sickness—during class, but when he works he works hard and is a good student. He is a shark at identifying evergreens. His easy good nature makes him popular everywhere, especially among the co-eds. We don't know whether "Ted" plans to be a golf course architect or a highway surveyor but are sure that he will design attractive links or build solid roads. He does things that way. May success be his.

William Goody Harvey

"HARVE"

Waltham 1902; Pomology; A. T. G. 3 McClellan Street

"Eat, drink and be merry."

This quiet conscientious man from Waltham who can do about anything from judging cattle to telling a professor how to make a graft, may be often seen holding a group of fellows spellbound with one of his famous stories. His future work is to be with fruit trees, an occupation he enjoys very much, with one exception. He objects very strongly to pruning a tree when some one above his head is scraping bark.

Johan Richard Haugland

"DICK"

Malden 1894; Horticulture. 3 McClellan Street

"Friends, Romans, Countrymen, lend me your ears."

"Dick" is a conscientious and persistent student. His pet diversion is the study of human nature. He claims that landscape gardening is his chosen work, but in our judgment we are inclined to think that he missed his calling. He should be a lawyer or a diplomat, or whatever it is they call those people that argue for a living. He is always well posted on world (and local) affairs and willing to show the other fellow where he is wrong. If the landscapers can stand his "line" his success as an artist in lawns and shrubs is assured.

"The price of learning is much earnest study."

"Pete" is a quiet chap but has been known to unburden his mind at some of the sessions of the "radicals" in the Social Union room. His arguments generally show the result of considerable earnest thought. All things growing interest "Pete." Most of his work here has been with poultry, but it is well known that bees exercise not a little attraction for him too. Although "Pete" seldom appears to be bubbling over with optimism and high spirits, we would hardly place him in the pessimist class. In whatever line of work he elects to follow, success is to be expected of him.

Lester Burton Hayward

Lester came to "Aggie" with a fair idea of what he was up against as he had lived in Amherst all his life. He is seldom seen around during the week ends, but he has never forgotten to come back with a big smile and a light heart on Monday morning. As a loyal and conscientious supporter of class activities "Les" has no superior, but the toot of the five-ten car will generally suffice to draw him away from the most absorbing affair and speed him toward the waiting bossies and biddies.

James Joseph Hazard

"A small man but bright withall."

"Haz" is one of the quiet sort but the clink of pennies will draw him quicker than the north pole draws the needle of a compass. His luck is generally poor, though. "Maidens like moths are ever caught by his glare."

This husky son of Westboro is one of the generals of twenty-three. "Hen" answered Coach Grayson's first call for football candidates and immediately took the position at half back where he made himself famous during his career at "Aggie." As a pitcher, he reminds us of Walter Johnson, and was responsible for several of our victories. When not pitching he covered first base. "Hen's" romance lies wholly in the southwest corner of Westboro. Strange to say "Hen" expects to start his life work in the wilds of Vermont.

"For thy sake tobacco, I'd do anything but die."

"Luke", the boy that never cracked a book, comes from the city of looms and is headed for the state of old Virginia where it's aged in the wood. On Saturday night while in college Clyde could be found at Miss Barry's going strong. But this is not his only accomplishment, for any one that took An. Hus. S-5 will tell you that our friend "Luke" is a startling horseman. As substitute catcher on the ball team he worked conscientiously and long, leaving an impression with his team mates not soon to be forgotten.

Fred is one of the few "New Joiseyites" that we have with us, but we would never take him for one of those famous Jersey Skeeters, for he is as unlike them in his nature as an Eskimo compared with a Zulu warrior. We have never been able to get much out of the lad in the way of conversation, but we all know him well and have been glad to have him with us as a friend and a classmate. Here is hoping to hear about him after he gets back to New Jersey and that he will show them how it's done at M. A. C.

Between them the brothers Hesse have cornered just about all the available agricultural knowledge on the campus. They should make a great team. "Lou" is a serious chap, much given to thought, which doubtless accounts for his good record here. On several occasions he has played an important part in Two Year musical circles. His last appearance with his trusty fiddle and bow was in the Dramatic Club Orchestra at the commencement show. Perhaps the nicest thing we can say about him is that we wish he belonged to Massachusetts instead of New Jersey.

*"Tis good in every cose you know,
to have two strings unto your bow."*

Sweet and short—but how deep the still waters run! This quiet little miss has given us some of the biggest surprises of the year. The only mistake Amy made is that her time here has been so short—we all feel we would like to have known her far longer than one short year. She is a lover of the great out-of-doors, and her knowledge therein seems to be boundless. Short though her time among us, she has made better use of it than many of the co-eds. All happiness in the world is our sincere wish for Amy.

15 Fearing Street

"And what is all the noise."

When this gentleman unbends and lets his dignity slip a little a keen wit and an agreeable personality are disclosed, but this glimpse is permitted only at rare intervals to any and to some not at all. His taciturnity has rather unjustly earned for him the election as perpetual grouch. It is true that, at times, he does seem at odds with all the world, but these who voted to give him the title could have approached him at the right moment. He knows hens, and intends to make their breeding, rearing, etc., his life work.

South Hadley Falls 42 McClellan Street
1893; Floriculture; A. T. G.; Baseball (2); Social Committee (2).

"Men of few words are the best men."

"Ed's" quiet unobtrusive ways kept him from becoming very generally known during his first year, but he could not remain a man of mystery forever and during this last year he has come into justly due popularity. "Kel's" twirling has baffled and beaten opposing batters and besides his accomplishments on the mound he has led the team in hitting. When not in the box he has effectively patrolled the center garden. For cheery good nature and steadfast loyalty of purpose we recommend "Ed" above all others. May his success be equally high.

S. Schofield Kelly

"SCHOF"

Blackstone 17 Kellogg Avenue
1903; Animal Husbandry; A. T. G.; Dramatic Club
(2)

A typical grind and student, a hard and consistent worker at all times is this man Kelly. Speaking of cattle, the Ayrshire is the only one in the running according to "Kell!" For recreation he delights in stealing away to the distant place called Belchertown. We won't say any more in regard to this as we think he could tell you more than we could. Be that as it may, if "Kell!" gets after a task it is seldom that a guy can derail him.

Saugus 37 Cottage Street
1897; Floriculture; Dramatic Club Treasurer (2);
Dramatics (2); Floriculture Club (2).

"Above the pitch out of tune, and off the hinges."

"Ken" is an enthusiastic lover of orchids and came to Aggie to learn more about them. His dream is to have a house full under his own guidance and skillful care. Dramatics is his pet diversion and in the prom show he exhibited his ability on the stage. As Samuel Gerridge in "Caste" "Ken" will be remembered for years to come. He also served faithfully and efficiently as treasurer of the Dramatic Club. If enthusiasm counts for anything "Ken" will be a decided success in life. He is a friend worth having.

Wilfred Harold Kitchell

"KITCH"

Winthrop 40 Amity Street
1899; Pomology.

"He's gentle and not fearful."

Another man who formerly came down from the wilds of Vermont. A big, wide grin, that shows thirty-six perfect teeth, a pair of large bone-rimmed spectacles, a wealth of black silky hair; but wait, readers, what this man doesn't know about Pomology isn't worth knowing. "Kitch" really believes that apples can be grown on our creeping ivy vines.

Beatrice Barbara Klepla

"BEE"

South Deerfield Abigail Adams House
1904; Poultry; President S. C. S. (2); Class Secretary (1, 2); Dramatic Club Secretary (2); Commencement Committee (2); Women's Student Council (2).

"She'd rather talk with a man than with an angel any day."

This "Bee" wandered here from South Deerfield, and she is still buzzing. Rain or shine, "Bee" always has a greeting for every one walking this broad campus. Bees and Bats don't usually work together, but this one has been on many a bat, and made it lively for the rest of us. Beatrice has been an active member and a hard worker in class affairs. Her cheerfulness and willingness to help have made her most popular everywhere. In all her ambitions for the future we wish her hearty success.

John Alexander Kruk

"JOHNIE"

South Deerfield 1896; Animal Husbandry; K. K. 73 Pleasant Street

"Johnie" left us before graduation, though we see him occasionally in the "Henry." We understand he has an "onion" plantation in the valley and had to get his crop in early, hence his departure. "Johnie" has been going at things in a business-like manner and spent much time in the Farm Management Department planning how to grow two onions where only one grew before. He has always been for "Aggie" and always eager to learn. We wish him success with his onions.

John Leonard Kuppers

"JOHN"

Worcester 1901; Horticulture. 20 Lessey Street

"Often seen and not heard."

This young man came to M. A. C. fresh from the farm. Fate, however, landed him in the horticulture group and he has ardently pursued his studies along that line. Amherst must have been particularly attractive to John for he chose to spend his placement training here on the campus. His cheerful and accommodating disposition won him many friends all of whom wish him the highest degree of success.

Roy Roosevelt Legare

"LE"

Petersham 1901; Animal Husbandry. 31 East Pleasant Street

"Tis better to move than be moved."

Without doubt Mr. Legare will have to change his name to Simon Legree when he gets out on the farm he is to manage in the future. We all expect that his employees will step around right livelier than he does now, when he gets to wielding one of the big stieks which abound in the town from whence he hails. We would have a chance to get away with the above remarks were it not for Roy's uncontrollable habit of blushing on every occasion, thereby giving the lie to what has been said. Even if his training here is not sufficient to bring him success, his amiable disposition will do the trick.

Lynn
1901; Pomology. 27 Fearing Street

"Thou art small but strive still to be a man."

From away down by the sea in Lynn, where the little play choo-choos meander along, "Chet" was presented to us. Since the great arrival most of his time has been spent in making himself solid with some fair maiden at Smith whom he could bring to the "Aggie" informals. Chester is one of the loyal supporters of '23.

Fredonna Leitch

Amherst, Mass.
1899; Horticulture; S. C. S.; Executive Committee (1, 2); Dramatic Club (2,); Musical Director (2).

"A loyal spirit fills that little frame."

She's an artistic lady and horticulture was not just in her line. This is why she made it her avocation. Her vocation is whistling and playing the cornet, drawing pretty pictures and numerous other activities besides. We wish that she might have lived in the dormitory, for she's a cheerful soul. She has maintained a constant interest in class affairs holding a position on the executive committee both years. As director and cornetist of the Dramatic Club orchestra her musical talent was displayed to advantage.

Everett Joseph Lemoult

"RED"

New York City, N. Y. 75 Pleasant Street
1903; Horticulture.

Slim, silent, smooth and shining, describes this debonaire lad as well as anything. We never have seen Everett when his shining thatch was not slicked neatly into place, nor do we recall seeing him in other than faultlessly pressed trousers and well shined shoes. Shaking the light fantastic exerts a great pull on "Le" and Odd Fellows Hall knows him well. He always finds time enough to do sufficient studying to keep his marks on the safe side. If "Slim Red's" line was equal to his appearance he would have no difficulty in getting by on the vaudeville stage. At that, perhaps it is, who knows?

"Behold the Child of Nature's Law."

We often wonder why "Lut" came to Aggie to study the fundamentals of Pomology. As the speaker of the house, "Lut" would make a good showing. The pompadour is Bradford's pride and joy, and represents the art of the Amherst plumbers. No blushing maid ever had anything on him for modesty and "Lut" is our most perfect exhibit of minding our own business.

Frederick William Marshall

"Oi deres von of de boiys!" exclaimed Abie upon seeing our Fred at a convention of ice cream makers. Although he resembles a son of Abraham in more ways than one, far be it from us to say he is that. When so inclined he studies; otherwise he gives the profs an extemporaneous "line," fluency being one of his strong points. We expect soon to hear of the enormous profits he will derive from that farm in Randolph.

*"It is less painful to learn in youth,

Be pleased to meet, gentle reader, a representative of the "second city" of New England. But all kidding aside we have the greatest respect for one who can keep clear of all the various forms of amusement enjoyed by his colleagues in the dairy class and still be a good scout. Being old in experience, his words carry weight in an argument. He can discourse as well on the surpassing beauties of many Venus de Milos as on the quality and composition of ice cream. "Matt" is a hard, conscientious worker with the proverbial Yankee eye for the main chance and we guarantee he will know what to do with that chance when it appears on the horizon.

*"Oh, what may man within him hide

Max saves shoe leather by liberal use of a Henry. Incidentally it is the shiniest of its species on the campus. He came to us from the Davis School of Agriculture in St. Helena, California. When he has absorbed all the poultry available here, he intends to return to the sunny state to show the Petaluma people how to raise chickens. We back the Bay State methods over all comers and Max should come thru with flying colors.

"MAC"

"Tall Oakes from Little Acorns grow."

"Mac" is one of our late comers and was an unknown quantity until the baseball season opened. Then he displayed his wares and we feel very proud to have him in our midst. Thru his perpetual crabbing on the field he has been dubbed "Johnny Evers" by his team mates but since his playing is equal to his crabbing we will forgive him for that. His chief regret in life is that he didn't go to work for "Liz" sooner so that he might have had the opportunity to marry a farm. Cheer up, "Mac", all farms aren't married yet.

John Percy McKinstry

"MAC"

Southbridge 1901; Animal Husbandry; Dramatic Club (2); Track (2). 94 Pleasant Street

"Why should the devil have all the good times?"

The large metropolis of Southbridge has sent to us its most smiling flower of manhood. Yes, "Mac" is also one of these guys that are always talking about getting out of the finals the wrong way, but he is real serious if he gets below 85 in anything at the show-down. "Mac" has started in experimenting a little lately. He is mixing sodas down at the "Greeks." Thus far he has killed no one, but our advice is keep away from there the days he is mixing bug poison in agronomy lab, as there is a possibility of his getting the formulas mixed. At that, "Mac" gives his books and his labs some attention and he is the guy if anyone is, who can get away with it.

"His words of learned length and thundering sound, Amaze the wondering students gathered around."

A city lad who has made good as a farmer—a book farmer. We think McNamara missed his calling though he admits he can tell now whether a cow gives milk or you have to take it from her. "Mac" is a plugger—and to prove this, one has but to glance thru his marks. He aspires to be a teacher, and we wish him luck. It would not be amiss to say that he has been a literal supporter of the "Inn" across the way. Probably this is an economic consideration—a time-saver, perhaps. "Mac" gave the class oration and his little lessons might well be remembered by all:

Ralph Addison Merrifield

"That Cassius hath a lean and hungry look."

A quiet youth interested in Animal Husbandry and we are quite sure he has absorbed all that has been handed him in the classroom. We are not sure but think he aspires to the hand of a certain red haired girl at Jackson College. We wish him all success in his endeavors but believe that he should stick closer to his major.

Joseph Charles O'Donnell

"JOE"

East Boston 21 Pleasant Street
1900; Animal Husbandry; Manager of Football (2);
Secretary of Athletic Board (2). A. T. G.

"The empty vessel makes the greatest sound."

'Tis reported "Joe" may graduate the same year Charlie Barnes swaps his bicycle for a new tricycle. Although we are not sure that there is any truth in this rumor. "Joe" has been one of us, always ready to smile and do what he can. He has followed our football team two years, being manager the last year. "Joe" really has a lot in him and will do his best at it if you don't mix books with it. "Joe's" favorite song is often heard way down deep; "Ashes to ashes, and dust to dust, if the co-eds don't get you, the faculty must." At any rate we have no fears for the future of this man.

"An honest man, close buttoned to the chin, Broadcloth without, and warm heart within."

If "Don" plows through his trials and tribulations as he plowed through his opponents on the football field during his two years here, he sure will win out. As a member of the basketball and baseball teams, "Don" has certainly done his bit for the class of 1923. "Don" is always in a hurry to get home after finals, and it is said that home possesses more than ordinary attractions. If the "Boston Rattler" should stop running to Littleton, "Don" would make it on his bicycle.

Edward Albert Packard

"Ed"

Dorchester 116 Pleasant Street
1902; Animal Husbandry.

"Ed" is another of those rather silent boys, but we suppose he has his loquacious moments although we have never caught him in one. Neat of dress, light of foot, and always with that appearance of just having stepped out of the proverbial bandbox, he is always in demand at the local dance halls. We suspect this to be another case where still waters run deep. Pack has absorbed considerable useful knowledge during his stay on the campus and great things are expected of him.

William Hamlin Park

"BILL"

Newtonville 9 Fearing Street
1901; Poultry; A. T. G.; Basketball (2); Baseball (2);
Football (2).

"His only crime—that most resplendent hair."

"White head" is as deadly to the fairer sex as the torpedo of the same name is to an unprotected liner. We don't blame them for losing their silly little heads about him but sometimes envy him a little. Even in this town, where the sterner sex predominates so heavily at all the dances, "Bill" is never without a partner. While here he has found time to play all three sports, getting his letter in basketball. The way he pulled down flies in the outfield this spring was a delight to see, only his failure to master the hitting end of the game kept him from a regular job. "Bill" should be a success with "chickens" when he finishes here.

"Lish"

Waltham 35 East Pleasant Street
1904; Horticulture; K. K.; Football (1, 2)

"I'd rather have friends than a wife."

We have long since despaired keeping count of the number of flivers, motor-cycles, and golf suits this swarthy lad from the watch city has had and discarded. It is also hard to keep the town of his attentions located. At one time a little village on Cape Cod seemed to be his Alpha and Omega but just now Springfield comes to more frequent mention. It's no wonder he got the "night-owl" election when you consider his dancing ability, natty attire, etc., and its inevitable effect on the fair sex. He intends to become a landscape architect sometime, but not just yet.

Udell Thurston Perry

"DELL"

Santuit 44 Pleasant Street
1902; Vegetable Gardening; Vegetable Gardening Club, President (2); Commencement Play (2).

"For mirth prolongeth life and causeth health."

This slender, good-natured youth hails from Cape Cod where he spent his boyhood cultivating the famous Cotuit oyster beds. "Dell," however, tired of his sea going gardening operations, and, putting aside his deep sea boots, set sail for M. A. C. Since then he has diligently applied himself to the science of dry land cultural operations. Except for brief intervals when he has taken a crack at dramatics or was leading a Vegetable Gardening meeting he has stuck to his chosen subject closer than the proverbial leech. We are sure that if Alericulture is a remunerative occupation, "Dell" with his ambitious temperament will be sure to dig it out.

Henry Phinney

West Roxbury Overlook Farm
1902; Animal Husbandry.

"I will pitch my tent here, a new state of things appalls me."

Evidently Henry missed his calling when he enrolled with us at M. A. C., but through his enrolling he has acquired a greater calling. Then, too, we will have to hand it to him, for he will also share in his partner's glories. Perhaps, through this very important step many qualities will break forth which the Two-Year Course was not able to bring out in the young man. Henry has the hearty wishes of his classmates for a successful career. May all his troubles be little ones.

Raymond Terry Potter

"RAY"

Great Barrington 83 Pleasant Street
1902; Pomology; A.T. G.; Football (2); Baseball (2).

"If music be the food of love, play on."

We cannot say too much in praise for this husky young man from the Berkshires, for his merits while among us might well be sung for many a day. Ray is a lengthy youngster possessed of a beautiful complexion, and easily takes the prize at being the best looking student in the class. He is as we all know, a demon on the gridiron as well as a star on the diamond, and is a true lover of all out-of-door sports. We have it also, that this same boy is no weakling at the indoor variety but "nuf ced", for we don't want to spoil all the nice things we have said about him and besides "Pott" is rather susceptible to blushing. We shall not soon forget Ray and are bound to hear from him in more ways than one.

Samuel Everett Rambo

"SAM"

Grafton 1895; Pomology. Sunderland

"An acre of performance is worth a whole world of promise."

This chap is a bona fide resident of one of our nearby towns, so has never had to contend with that more or less homesick feeling that some of us have, who come from afar. And "Sam" has certainly appeared right at home, too, during the two years he has been in our midst. While it is certain that "Sam" will never be hung for his beauty, yet what he lacks from that point of view he more than makes up in various other ways, and we'll all just leave it to Uncle Sam.

George Lister Rand

"BUDDIE"

No. Weymouth 18 Nutting Avenue
1902; Dairying.

"Young in limbs, in judgment old."

The real "Buddie" is hidden behind a mask; blase and carefree to only those who know him best. More than a little a humorist and a trickster "Egroe's Donas" can delight anyone when he chooses. In home circles he is supposed to have a steadying influence on his "wife" "Rosie" but we fail to see any evidence of it. On one or two occasions he has created considerable excitement in Hamp but for the most part he is a steady going fellow for whom the future can only bring success.

"On his front was written ambition."

There are a lot of us who have never become as familiar with this man as we would have liked. He is always seen going to class and from class at a moderate gait with something on his mind. We know he works somewhere downtown which may go to solve it all. He also is a good hard worker in college, and as far as the editorial staff is concerned we really can't find a good joke to put in about him. If anyone has one please tell us at our next Alumni reunion as we don't want to miss a thing. We are going to wish him success and a happy future.

Milton Carleton Richardson

"Rich"

West Brookfield 84 Pleasant Street
1904; Animal Husbandry.

"The farmers are the strength of the nation."

Richardson, the man of the hour, dressed in his snappy knickers and King Tut golf socks, would never give the impression that he came from the little backwoods town of West Brookfield. Almost every night in the week our friend "Richy" can be found in the picturesque heights of Crow Hill. Altho struggling under this handicap, "Rich" has established an enviable record here at college and his future promises much.

Harry Sixten Sablin

"HARRY"

Dorchester 20 Lessey Street
1904; Animal Husbandry; K. K.; Football (1, 2);
Baseball (2).

"You can't tread lightly with heavy shoes."

As quiet in disposition and manner as is imaginable except when late for supper. Harry has always been willing to carry the bats and extra footballs for the boys on the different trips. We expect to see him in the future carrying the brimming pail for some blushing milkmaid as they return from the green pastures. We are not saying how his other hand and arm will be occupied. When "Kel" was in the box Harry gathered in the high ones in center field with ease and dispatch but one of the opposing outfielders always seemed to be camped right on the spot where Harry elected to drop his long wallops. Better luck in the future.

"SCHNITZ"

Newport, R. I.
1896; Poultry; K. K.

Aggie Inn

*"A foot more light a step more true,
Ne'er from the counter dashed the stew."*

"Schnitz" swings a mean cloth behind the counter at the Aggie Inn, during his spare hours. His cheery grin and friendly word sells many a mummified doughnut or piece of stale pie that otherwise seemed "born to bloom unseen." On occasion he retires to the kitchenette and O! what luscious dainties then come forth! We often wonder what percentage he receives from the local druggists and physicians, not to mention undertakers. "Schnitz" certainly ought to be able to satisfy the appetites of his flock when his chicken ranch gets under way.

Harry Verne Scribner

"SCRIB"

"Over hill and dale with never a rest he sped."

Here is one of our energetic Pom students who is always up and coming and is usually up among the "400" at the time we receive our grades from the office. This gentleman chose to reside in one of the neighboring towns, so outside of class hours, we do not see much of him as he is soon seen speeding northward in that "Chevvic" of his hitting on all four. "Scribbie's" plans for the future are not known, but it is certain that whatever he undertakes, he will hit it for a thousand.

*"Now by two-headed genius, nature hath

This easy going chap has an almost fatal failing for school teachers. The fatal part comes in when an irate prof lands on this luckless lad for an over-due lab. report. Perhaps some later date may prove the fatal failing to take on a more personal touch. Who can tell? John's other failing is Rural Soc plus dramatic rehearsals. We wonder where he got his little originals (?) before his indulging in these collegiate pastimes. His chief hobbies are athletics and half cuts. As all star center for the McIntosh Red quintet in their desperate encounters with the Butter Fats he displayed rare and remarkable talent. When "Slats" gets thru here he intends to raise tobacco in the famous little town from which he comes and we expect to hear considerably more of this town from then on.

Westfield 75 Pleasant Street
1902; Animal Husbandry; Shorthorn Staff (2).

*"Behold the child of nature's law, pleased

"Dizzy" is very much interested in all subjects agricultural and surely finds out all there is to know, while in the classroom. He is easy to pick in a crowd, his walk is distinctive, he dotes on radio, and is in his glory when he is picking agricultural news from the air. He hasn't much time to spare for campus activities other than the classroom. We understand he likes to step out and surely shakes a wicked leg. We predict big things for him, for his interests are varied; perhaps he may rival "Mareoni" or may fool us and go back to the soil.

William Smith

"SMIDDY"

Whitinsville 4 Nutting Avenue
1901; Animal Husbandry; K. K.; Baseball (2).

*"His tawny beard was equal in grace, both

"Smiddy" is interested in Animal Husbandry and says he has picked up many pointers along this line while with it. We think he has other interests away from "Aggie" for he has been slipping away, very quietly on week-ends, perhaps to the "Home Town." "Smiddy" has a disposition which many envy and you can tell him by his pleasant smile. Much of our team's success this season has been due to his hard work behind the bat, and his ability to nip them at second. We know he will make good after leaving us and wish him all success.

Robert Spengler

"BOB"

Springfield 3 Nutting Avenue
1893; Poultry.

*"A man who smokes, thinks like a sage, and

Outside of class the only thing we have ever seen "Bob" get really warmed-up over is bowling. During the cool days he was a steady customer at the Memorial Hall alleys. For a man of few words he sure can make those billets talk when he goes into action with a fast cross-alley ball. Seldom is he seen on the short end of a match whether it is "two-some" or a "four-some".

We hope he doesn't forget himself and use the same tactics when he gets to shooing chickens into their coops at night.

"Ed"

Brimfield 22 North Prospect Street
1903; Vegetable Gardening.

"Compared to him Moses himself was somewhat of a devil."

"Ed's" major is Vegetable Gardening and therein lies his chief interest. Next to that he loves an argument and never fails to arouse the professor's ire with his fool questions. However, his good nature is as unruffled as the pond on a June day and all his boyish pranks are done in pure innocence. His favorite one seems to be a double share of half cuts, but we understand that a brother of "Ed's" went before him so that he is burdened with a reputation to live up to. Those of us who were privileged to sit near "Ed" on chapel mornings are going to miss the inspiration for a day's work when no longer we can hear him carry the bass of No. 195. "Ed" is going back to the plains of Brimfield to show them down that way how to grow vegetables and we will bet he can do it.

Harry Brooke Springer

"Pop"

North Hartland, Vt. No. Amherst

"It is a great plague to be too handsome a man."

When you see a dusty and battered old Overland come careering wildly down the street with a huge figure muffled in a still more dilapidated O. D. coat you may be sure it's "POP." It's a good recommendation to the Overland Company that one of their cars has been able to withstand the strain of transporting this Goliath. To "Pop" more than anyone else is due the success of this book. He has worked unceasingly and to good purpose with never a grumble about the personal hardships undergone. We are all sorry that "Pop" is not graduating with us as he did not enter until mid-year and has one more term to go. However, this will prove fortunate to the members of the class of '24 as they will have a chance to better their acquaintance with him.

Clifton Baird Stever

"STEVE"

Yarmouthport 23 East Pleasant Street

"Depend not on fortune, but on conduct."

This young man is one whom we might all envy from a standpoint of scholarship, for when not found in the Library doping out something in Pom he can generally be located at his study on East Pleasant Street where all is quiet and serene. "Steve" sure is a "Book worm," but the class is proud of him, for with his intellect and quiet personality, it is a cinch that success will shortly prove for him a worthy middle name.

This good-looking chap from the north has passed thru his two years here without once getting his hair ruffled the wrong way. He is endowed with that slowness of speech which is characteristic of his section of our fair land. "Stick" is a conscientious worker and possesses to a high degree that quality of temperament so necessary, according to Sane, to the successful poultryman. He has done good and faithful service as a member of the council and on various class committees. We all wish him the best of luck.

Frank Leo Sullivan

"SULLY"

North Andover 1897; Special. Amherst Tavern

"A man's mind is moulded by his thoughts."

Sully is a quiet lad but his cheery smile lights his way and takes the place of mere words. He is a natty dresser, wears his hair parted, goes to the movies, and attends classes with considerable regularity. He is seldom encountered on the sidewalks, preferring to do his traveling in a "Hen-coup." Beyond this we really know very little about him.

Although bearing the same family name as the gentleman immediately above, the resemblance ends there. "Jawn" seldom smiles but his quips and witticisms come in a never failing stream. Verily, the blarney stone is no stranger to his lips! He has an eye for the high producing biddy and knows how to make them do their best. "Sully" claims that chickens, like men, do their best work when given plenty to drink.

*"God doubtless could have made a better
BERRY, but doubtless God never did."*

Here is our champion Mexican athlete. "Sunny" came to Aggie from Lowell, prepared to discuss any subject whatever. Even though he is greatly disappointed at the distant situation of the co-ed parlors, "Sunny" is still planning frequent trips in the future that way. However, if the pomes and pears fall for his line as others have, "Sunny" cannot keep from being prosperous in the future.

Paul Fredolt Swanson

"SWANIE"

Chelmsford 42 McClellan Street
1900; Vegetable Gardening; A. T. G.; Secretary Student Council (1); President Student Council (2); Class Treasurer (1, 2); Football (2); Baseball Mgr. (2); Commencement Committee.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

This boy is a regular information bureau. There are not many questions pertaining to botany or agriculture that really stick him. He is always cheerful and always willing to help a fellow. We have oftentimes wondered whether "Swanie" came up here to attend college or to attend to class affairs of the Two-Year Course. Although listed as majoring in Vegetable Gardening, many would get the impression by observing his activities that he had many majors. Paul had long cherished the idea of going out West but having heard so much about China during his two years here, he has decided to go over there and teach the Chinese how to farm. A good student, popular with everyone, we are sure "Swanie" will succeed in any venture he may undertake.

Herman Robert Swenbeck

"BOB"

Boston 116 Pleasant Street
1900, Horticulture; A. T. G.; Social Committee (2); Shorthorn Staff (2);

"Don't let your tools or your mind get rusty."

This is not "Bob's" first offense at an agricultural institution, as previous to coming here, he studied at the Essex County Aggie, but its limited offerings did not fit with his ambitious nature. His hard work has made him one of the leaders of his class and got him the job of rustling photos for the Shorthorn. That he has not done all that was required of him and more, nobody can deny. He has always been a loyal supporter of all class activities and we may safely predict that he will take his place in the world with just as much enthusiasm and with as much success as he has met with here.

Shorthorn 1923

Leon Chessman Thomas

"TOMMY"

South Weymouth 18 Nutting Avenue
1903; Dairying; Basketball Mgr. (2).

"Judge him not by his actions."

This spirited young citizen from the wilds of South Weymouth blew in at Aggie with a bang, and has been going ever since. A man of many attainments is "Tommy"; a good dresser, a good entertainer, a conscientious student, and an ardent devotee of the terpsichorean art, in fact for most anything on the list he fills the bill even to picking "lemons." He likes a good time and is strong for the chickens (those without feathers)". When he gets that ice cream plant going in South Weymouth we are going to pay him a visit. There is a reason.

Benjamin Franklin Trull

"TRULLY"

Lowell 84 Pleasant Street
1903; Social Committee (1); Track (1,2); Football (1).

"The fashion wears out more apparel than the man."

"Oh girrrrls, that's him, right up here at the top of the page! Isn't he just too sweet for anything?"

*And did you notice the way he walks and the Honey and Almond Cream complexion? Oh,
I do wish I could meet him!"*

Co-educationally speaking, that's what some of us think of Kid Glove Harry, but he has been with us on the gridiron and there really is another side to him. He is a strong supporter of both Smith and Mt. Holyoke Colleges and is always ready to tell you about "the swell dame he had last night." The problem that is bothering some of us now, is, how he is going to persuade one of his many maidens to come back to the farm with him. Well Trully, old man, seems funny our saying it, but we like you, and here's to your success.

William Harold Tufts

"BILL"

North Easton 73 Pleasant Street
1901; Animal Husbandry; K.K.; Basketball (2).

*"But the man worth while is the one who will smile
When everything goes dead wrong."*

Big "Bill" hails from that thriving town of North Easton, the home of the famous Langwater Guernseys. "Bill" has two major interests—women and foreign labor. He spends most of his time at the Klub delivering long dissertations on these two topics. "Bill" is a grind, and spends long evenings with his studies, but with the memories of many pretty faces it's hard for Will to keep his mind on the books. Basketball is his pet sport and he worked hard for the team this last season.

"LICK"

Stoughton 70 Lincoln Avenue
1902; Dairying; K. K.

"A killing tongue but a quiet sword."

Coming from a town noted for its "one man one car" trolley line one would expect "Lick" to turn his latent brilliance to the improvement of that line but he has turned his footsteps in another direction and aims to make Brockton more famous for its lacteal fluid than its beautiful women. We wish him success. By an observant visitor he may be detected from the rest of the dairy crew by the amount of ice cream he can consume on the outside of his face as well as on the inside.

Wallace Hayward Walker

"WALLIE"

Ashby Stockbridge Hall
1902; Animal Husbandry; K.K.

"Few persons have courage enough to appear as good as they really are."

We predict big things for "Wallie." He is right there on getting the facts and putting them on 8½x10 note book paper. Since he came to M. A. C. Wallie's thoughts have centered around his home farm, and it has been a background and inspiration for his work with us. He also has shown diligence in other lines. He will be graduated soon from that important position as head floor-walker at Stockbridge. He must have made good, for he now has a "Henry." We think the folks awarded him this very useful article for his good work at M. A. C.

Dennis William Scot Weagle

"DINNY"

Marlboro 75 Pleasant Street
1893; Pomology.

"There's mischief in this man."

"Dinny" as we know him about the campus is one of the older boys of the class. Being of a quiet and unassuming nature we have not been able to get any great line on this gentleman's social characteristics, etc., but the old saying is that "Still water runs deep" and we feel that in "Wiggie," we have made an acquaintance not soon to be forgotten.

Shorthorn N 1923

Charles Payne Wheeler

"CHARLIE"

Brinfield 73 Pleasant Street
1903; Pomology; K.K.

"Young fellows will be young fellows."

It was in our freshman year that a loud disturbance was heard at the depot. Lo, and behold, it was "Charlie" arguing with the engineer as to who should do the tooting. After several minutes of much argument "Charlie" finally won out, and he has been blowing it ever since. As one passes by the Kolony Klub all kinds of noises may be heard from "Charlie's" saxophone. At night, however, the scene changes and he is one of Masonic Hall's rooters, but he still has chances of prosperity before him.

George Wiedenmayer

"CRAFTY"

Glen Ridge, N. J. Sunset Avenue
1901; Poultry.

"There is no fire without some smoke."

We have often wondered what George was fed on when he was young to make him grow so straight and tall. He has a heart of stone, too. Many are the female glances bestowed upon this blond giant, but to what purpose? Alas! he sees them not, or seeing, fails to heed. The little god who rules such will make him pay dearly, some day. One kind of chickens, tho, George knows all about. He can tell at a glance, when a bird began to lay, how many eggs it has laid, and how long it will continue laying. We predict a bright future for the lad with the slow drawl and distinctive expressions.

Henry James Wilson

"WILS"

Boston Apiary
1902; Poultry.

"A comedy youth is he."

Out of the "Hub of the Universe" came this smiling lad, to learn all about the ins and outs of producing toothsome market fowl. "Wils" spends his spare time mowing the lawn for our aristocratic bees. One of them deigned to notice Henry one day with painful results to all concerned. The bee died but "Wils" regained the sight of his left eye after a few days. "Wils'" cheery smile and quiet ways make a favorable and lasting impression wherever he goes. His industry and attention to details will surely carry him to success in his chosen field.

"PHIL"

Hedly, B. C., Ca. Abigail Adams
1896; Horticulture; Vice-President, S. C. S.; Dramatic Club (2); Commencement Play (2).

"Her smile is like the rainbow, flashing from the misty sky."

"Phil's" sunny face and ready smile light her path wherever she goes. We, her classmates, have been driven into gales of mirth over her oft-time forgetfulness, —but her head is surely screwed on securely, for with her deliberate ways she always manages to get there on the dot, except when she goes strolling of an evening. Her tongue is most marvelous, for all the terrifying Latin words of the Botanical Encyclopedia are her pets. We are truly glad this sunny miss came to us from the far off Pacific Coast.

Theodore Henry Weed

"TED"

Lenox North College
1902; Animal Husbandry; A. T. G.; Animal Husbandry
Club (1, 2).

"Laziness lends grace to his demeanor."

Most of us have been brought up thinking weeds should be destroyed but let us tell you to be cautious if you try to destroy this one. Yes, "Ted" can hold his own with the gloves, in classrooms, and out with the co-eds. When we said "in classrooms" we meant hold that well known sleeping pose and get by with it. He always wakes up around the time of finals and comes through with colors flying, though. 'Tis rumored that "Ted" has a girl down in New York somewhere! Oh, by the way, "Ted" "goes out" to classes with co-eds, we didn't want you to misjudge the earlier statement. We're all with you "Ted" and are looking forward to your success.

Harold Eric Westervelt

"WESTY"

Tenaflly, N. J. 23 East Pleasant Street
1900; Animal Husbandry; Executive Committee
(1, 2); Student Council (2).

"Out where the West begins, etc."

Certainly the good fates used extraordinary foresight when they had this young man born to the name of Westervelt, (emphasis on the "west"). How he ever came back east is a problem that we never have been able to solve and he has held many of us aghast at his tales of the redwood country, the smell of sage, the frothing broncho, and the place where he buried his dead out there where they eat lead for breakfast. For excitement since coming back east he seems to find plenty over the mountain. Maybe it's a senorita of the border type. Please "Westy" forgive us if we have exaggerated anything. Maybe you could make us take some of it back if you used the old six gun. To be sincere we wish to say "Westy" is a man of high ideals and conduct and we wish him the highest success.

1899; Dairying; A. T. G.; Class Vice-President (1, 2);
Commencement Committee (2).

Big, brawny, blue bearded but always a good natured smile on his face, that's "Woodie." Coming from the place made famous by its fruit, but otherwise never heard of, we naturally wouldn't expect much from this lad. However, you can't judge a man by the town he comes from for "Woodie" has been prominent in class affairs from the very start and he is always willing to put his shoulder to the wheel no matter how difficult the task. As a side line to his class activities and Dairy Course "Woodie" swings a mean broom at the Experiment Station. We predict that the future will see him rising rapidly in his chosen profession.

Henry Adam Breivogel

Jamaica Plain 13 Amity Street,
1896; Poultry.

Aside from Johnson, Henry could be elected to be the Class Grouch. He can step on the gas when the need arises. We expect in the agricultural field he will turn things East to West and upside under. Go to it, Old man, and more power to you.

George Earle McKenna

Orange 36 North Prospect Street
1897 Pomology

George was a carpenter and should be able to build up quite a poultry plant. We wish him every success.

Albert John Ravinski

Dover Cushman, Mass.
1899; Poultry.

Ravinski was a steady member of the Social Union Senate Association and took an active part in all debates especially those of Bangs vs. Johnson. He speaks three languages and can sneeze in several. We wish "Ravey" a large portion of success. He deserves it.

Sayles came to us direct from Uncle Sam's school for making the world safe for democrats and in which he was a second lieutenant. Previous to that he was a druggist and general pill mixer. We hope he can feed biddy the right kind of dope to make her cackle twice where heretofore she has cackled only once.

Junior Class History

Upon our arrival on the campus in September, 1922, the Student Council took us in hand, explaining that organization and its purpose, assisting in the election of temporary officers, and outlining the course we were to follow in regard to conduct. Officers elected at this meeting were: President, Everett Miller; Secretary, Dorothy Haskell; and Treasurer, Allerton Johnston.

At the election of permanent officers the office of vice-president was done away with and the secretary was authorized to serve as president in the absence of that officer. The president, secretary and treasurer were re-elected, but Allerton Johnston resigned and his place was taken by Albert Cole, assisted by a committee of collectors.

A reception and dance tendered us by the seniors was attended and enjoyed by a large part of the class. This proved to be a valuable means of establishing contacts, not only with the seniors but also among ourselves. We gave the seniors a return dance to show our appreciation.

Several men turned their attention to football, and, under Coach Maginnis' direction, developed into competent players, greatly strengthening the team.

During the winter dances and basketball took up the spare time and provided diversion. Most of the regulars on the basketball squad came from our class, so a good team should be forthcoming next year.

While the snow still lay deep on the ground the winter term came to an end, and we parted for our farm placement work. Even in the short time we have spent here we have come to feel the helpful and broadening influence of Aggie, and we all look forward to a happy and profitable senior year.

The Short Course Student Council

This organization which had its inception in November, 1919, has risen to a place of considerable importance and influence in settling infractions of conduct. The Council has proven its value to the course by bringing the two classes into closer contact and making possible unified action on matters of importance.

With the practical discontinuation of Rural Engineering and Vocational Poultry courses the membership of the Council has been reduced to eleven. All nominations and elections are now carried on at a regular assembly. This has served to heighten the general interest and to insure the selection of satisfactory men.

A conscientious group has always characterized the Council, which has earned the respect of not only the Two-Year students but also of the Four-Year men and faculty.

Social Activity

Class of 1923

The Social Committee of the class has indeed been an active one during its reign of office of one short year and a half. The outstanding feature has been the co-operation and class spirit which has crowned the social event with success.

The first event which remains vivid in the memory of all was given in November under the name of "A Farmers' Ball." This was enjoyed by all, especially the loyal co-eds, who entered into the spirit of the masquerade whole heartedly. Director and Mrs. Phelan, with other members of the Faculty, added much to the pleasure of the evening. It passed with much merriment and fun.

Not only have the members of the class enjoyed indoor activities, but the lure of this wonderful and interesting valley has been quite keenly felt, especially by the co-eds. Bacon bats and hikes have been enjoyed from time to time. Mt. Sugar Loaf and Toby have been explored by various members of this large and energetic group of young men and women.

On returning as Seniors last September we gave a Welcome Reception and Dance to the large Freshman Class of 1924, in Memorial Hall. The guest of honor was President Butterfield, who had just returned to us from China. Members of the Faculty were present, and the spirit was one of warm appreciation.

The ensuing months passed by on wings! The next event was a Farewell Dance to the departing Freshman Class. Both classes entered into this last social of the year with a feeling of comradeship which has left a lasting influence upon us, who leave this campus in June. We shall not forget the good times here, and look forward to future reunions after we have gone out into our life work.

M. A. C. Two-Year Dramatic Club

All organizations pertaining to dramatics which had been formed previous to 1923, were composed of senior students, and, altho excellent work was done in the production of the commencement plays, the disbanding and breaking up of each club thru the graduation of its entire membership necessitated the organization of a new club before dramatic work could be resumed. This has been a very serious obstacle in attaining that high standard to which the Two-Year group aspires. Plans for overcoming this weakness in organization were presented to Director Phelan, in January, 1923, and with his approval a meeting of those students interested in dramatics took place.

The question as to whether or not we should have a permanent dramatic organization met with a favorable answer, and temporary officers were elected, with twenty students signing as members. A committee was elected to draft the necessary constitution and by-laws.

At a meeting on January 31, the Constitution was presented and accepted by the club members, who, at this time, numbered forty.

February 15th an election of officers took place, and the temporary officers were re-elected to hold office for the remainder of the year.

Shorthorn 1923

In accordance with the constitution of the club an election of officers was held March 22nd, and a full staff of officers elected among the junior members of the club. This junior staff will assume office at the termination of the Spring college term, and will take up and continue the dramatic work upon their return to college. In this way the organization is perpetuated from year to year, obstacles of re-organization are largely overcome and better work should be done.

It was hoped that in this club all short course students might meet on an equal standing and not be separated by grades or factions of any kind. Therefore, all short course and special students are eligible for membership, and faculty members are welcomed thru invitation by the executive chairman.

As soon as organization was fairly complete it was decided to begin stage work at once, and tryouts were held from which seven one-act plays were cast, two of which—"Lend Me Five Shillings" and "The Brink of Silence"—were later presented at Bowker Auditorium.

At a meeting in March two committees were appointed, one to select a commencement play and one to organize an orchestra. The committee on plays selected "Caste," by T. W. Robertson, for commencement, and an orchestra was organized under the leadership of Miss Fredonna Leitch.

A cast for the commencement play was soon chosen, and the work of preparation moved along spiritedly. The orchestra, composed of five pieces soon gave every indication of success.

Altho there are many things about the organization and policy of the club that can be very much improved, yet, up to the present time, the club has been thoroughly successful. It is hoped that the class of twenty-four will take up the work where we are obliged to drop it, and, over the trail which we have blazed, build a broad and permanent road straight on to higher standards in dramatic work.

Two-Year Clubs

Nobody of any vision can fail to recognize the importance of social life in a college, and in the clubs that have been developed in the Two-Year Course is to be found the highest type of fraternal life.

In 1922, there were four of these clubs on the campus, three for boys and one for girls, but one of the boys' clubs was forced to drop out. Of the two remaining boys' clubs, one has a house of its own, and the other is hopeful of being likewise established in the not too distant future.

The clubs have shown themselves to be of great value in drawing the alumni back to various occasions on the campus.

A healthy spirit of rivalry exists between the clubs, and a series of twilight ball games were played this spring. During the winter the clubs combined forces on several occasions to stage dances in the Memorial Hall.

Let us hope that none of the present clubs will wither away, but that each will prosper and expand, continuing to hold the same broad outlook which now characterizes them.

Coach Grayson's call for candidates for the team was answered by a large squad of mostly inexperienced men, there being only three veterans back in the line-up. Coach Grayson and Captain Betterley immediately got to work, and soon the Two-Year Course was represented by a fast and snappy team.

The first game was against the heavy varsity "C" team, and the boys sure did look good in there. The Two-Year showed superior tact and skill, decisively defeating their opponents with a 10—0 score.

Our next game was with the fast Stevens Institute eleven. It was a hard-fought contest, but we had to suffer a 14—7 defeat.

After two weeks of hard practice, "Aggie" lined up against Worcester North High. We started off with a "bang" and every man was in there every minute, and we were never in danger. The Worcester boys put up a good fight, but the superior playing of their opponents sent them home defeated with a score of 21—0.

Our team next journeyed down to the "Nutmeg State" to play the Conn. Aggie 2nd team. The teams were quite evenly matched, but the "Conn" boys finally succeeded in putting over their second touchdown, and we left the gridiron on the small end of a 14—7 score.

The two hardest games of the season were to come next—the heavy Springfield College second team and the speedy Lowell Textile eleven. Our opponents outweighed us twenty pounds to the man, and we were defeated by both teams with final scores of 31—0 and 35—0.

However, it was a profitable season, and material for the 1922 team was developed.

Football 1922

About thirty candidates answered Coach Maginnis' call for candidates, but of this squad the green material was far in excess of the veterans. This squad had hard workouts daily under the supervision of Coach Maginnis and Captain Bangs, and a fighting team was developed.

The season was unsuccessful from a standpoint of victories, but this was not due to the fact that they did not play the game to win. The boys played hard and clean in every game, but were unsuccessful in pushing the pigskin across for the winning points.

Altho the season was unsuccessful, much valuable football knowledge and hard earned experience were gained by the undergraduates, and a good season next year is looked forward to.

The exceptional work of Captain Bangs at quarter and Outhuse at center were the outstanding features of the games, and too much credit cannot be given to the untiring efforts of Coach Maginnis.

Basketball 1922

The 1922 Two-Year basketball season opened with several familiar faces on the squad. A hard schedule of sixteen games had been arranged by Manager Nettleton. There was a lot of good material out for the team, but they lacked experience, and Coach Grayson had a difficult proposition on his hands to develop the needed material. After several calls for candidates "Em" was able to whip two full teams together, and lively practice games took place daily. Soon a very promising team was developed under the efficient direction of Coach Grayson and Captain Ross.

The season started off with a victory over Amherst High. The next game was our first defeat at Sacred Heart. Three more defeats followed, but we didn't give up the ship. After a long cold ride to Arms Academy we lined up against the Strong "Arms" team; it was a closely fought contest from the start to the finish. After playing two over time periods we finally succeeded in defeating our opponents to the tune of 21—20.

Five victories and five defeats were the results of the rest of our season. Too much credit cannot be given to Captain Ross. He worked hard every minute, and his foul shooting was far superior to his opponents.

Basketball 1923

The basketball team of 1923 was composed of practically all raw material, there being but two members of the 1922 team which formed the nucleus around which the team had to be built up. There was a truly large response at the calling of candidates, and much enthusiasm was displayed by all. Every individual was given a thorough tryout to display his mettle, and under the watchful eye of "Em", those of this year's team who come back next year, together with what raw material may be developed, should put the Shorthorn Quintet back into the winning column and uphold the reputation of Two-Year teams in days gone by.

Altho this season's record was on the face of it rather disappointing from the standpoint of victories won, yet let it be said that it was thru no lack of spirit or gameness that the scores do not read differently; for every player exemplified the same Aggie spirit which has ever been prevalent from the beginning of the course.

The team seemed to gain in strength toward the end of the season, and the fact that the strong Natick High School team was taken into camp tends to bear this statement out.

So, after taking into consideration the fact that the men were all new to each other and did not have the big advantage of ever having played together, it should not be said that the team was entirely unsuccessful, and the experience gained by the Junior members is sure to make itself manifest during the years ensuing.

Baseball 1923

Immediately after the close of the basketball season indoor baseball practice began in the Drill Hall. About thirty candidates reported to Coach "Em" Grayson, all of whom had more or less previous experience; but each had a determination to do his best for the course, for the team and for "Em."

The season started with a 23—5 victory over Turners Falls High, which gave evidence that a hard-hitting and snappy team was to represent the Two-Year Course this season.

The next game against Sacred Heart High was opened with a homer by Micky McGrath on the first ball pitched. Armstrong duplicated Micky's feat a few moments later, and the game was on ice. Carl Henry's excellent pitching could not be solved by the Holyoke boys who did not connect safely throughout the game.

The first out-of-town game was played with Wilbraham Academy at Wilbraham, and the team continued in its winning stride by bringing home an 11—3 victory. The hard hitting of the Aggie boys and Kelley's excellent work on the mound featured the game.

One week later the Wilbraham team journeyed to Amherst to even things up, but "Em's" strong aggregation started in where it left off the previous week, and the visitors left on the short end of a 19—5 score.

Monson Academy's strong team visited the campus a few days later, confident of a win. Both teams hit the ball hard and handled it carelessly, but the final count showed the two-year boys on the long end of a 17—14 score.

At this stage of the season the boys lost their batting eyes and suffered three defeats at the hands of Sacred Heart, Deerfield Academy and Monson Academy. The absence of Captain Bangs in the first two of these games was keenly felt, and his value to the team became very evident. The following week the boys returned to the winning column by defeating Palmer High 14—2.

June second the Deerfield nine visited the campus, and won in the ninth by a score of 8—6. This was a close, interesting game, and a fine exhibition of baseball.

The season was ended in the proper manner by annexing the Commencement game with Worcester North High by the score of 11—1. The season proved to be one of the most successful any of "Em's" teams have thus far experienced. All hated to see it end so soon, and the joy of playing together will long be remembered.
